Dear GE Customer Care Servicers,

GE Consumer & Industrial places a very high priority on product quality and customer satisfaction and thus continuously assesses our product reliability. Recent analysis has discovered a potential problem with the main circuit board on a limited number of refrigerator models, which could lead to lower than anticipated life expectancy on that component. Therefore, if the main circuit board fails, GE Consumer & Industrial will replace this part free of charge to the consumer until further notice.

Models Covered: see attachment

The models affected are side-by-side plastic liner, side-by-side metal liner, bottom freezer two door and bottom freezer French door. The models were produced between May 2005 and August 2006 (HH - RL serial range) and are included in this program. See enclosed list.

Potential Additional Covered Parts:

Specific parts involving the failure of the main board are included in this program. These parts are limited to the following:

- Evaporator Fan failure, only if accompanied by a Main Board failure
- Dispenser Board failure, only if accompanied by a Main Board failure

The main board part number in cases in WR55X10552. Please use your normal warranty MA00 job code for this repair. If you encounter an evaporator fan or dispenser board failure due to the above main board, please include on your invoice and use the normal MA00 job code. It is critical that you verify the proper functioning of the unit including the evaporator fan motor and dispenser board before leaving the home to avoid a repeat call.

Units may be in or out of the standard 1-year product warranty and both instances are covered under this concession program.

If you previously completed this repair and charged the consumer, please send a copy of the service invoice to General Electric Consumer Relations, PO Box 10736, Norfolk, VA 23513 or fax a copy to 1-877-299-0725 so that we may issue a refund to the consumer.

Sincerely,

Richard Zutterman
